Factory Run Is Under Way

With a long blast of the whistle at 8 a.m. this morning, the Sugar Factory, after being in operation for two or three days to test the lines, etc., commenced the slicing of the 1938 crop of beets. On Wednesday when a visit was made to the mill, the engines were idling and the juice lines were all full of steam and water testing them out, and the crew was travelling from one section of the mill to the other giving everything the final onceover before the beets started in. Superintendent C.R. Wing stated that a full crew was ready to start and new sugar would come down somewhere about 48 hours after the start of the slicers and the presses.

On the outside in the beet sheds, numerous improvements have been made since the run last year, with this part of the mill being completely changed. Flumes have been raised and enlarged, which will keep the beets in better condition, and make them easier to flume in after the piles have stood for weeks. A new scale house of brick has been built to replace the old frame one, and new scales which require no changing of weights and balancing of beams have been put in. The scales are double-faced so that the driver can check on the weights in & out load, and as they are almost instantaneous, weighing in and out will be greatly facilitated and trucks and wagons can come and go as fast as they can receive their dirt tare from the hoppers. The second of these scales was being prepared for service Wednesday and will be going full swing by now. Besides the carloads of beets that had come in, trucks and wagons were unloading steadily Wednesday and by now will be going in a steady stream.

In conversation with the office we were informed that the smallest carry over in six years will be on hand this year when the new sugar comes down. In fact bins and warehouses at both plants will be swept clean, and the only sugar on hand will be what is in the warehouses of the jobbers. There has been a brisk demand for sugar during the last six weeks, with one of the heaviest preserving seasons in a number of years just finishing up.

During the week employees have been returning from various points in Southern Alberta to take up their posts at the factory, and house hunting has been a popular pastime for those who have come to live here during the campaign. The local factory employs in the neighborhood of 400 people in the mill, on the outside with the beets and in the office when the factory is running and delivery of beets is at its peak. During the campaign the town is really a busy place and everyone feels the boost that the factory and its attendant works programs makes in the district.

NEWS NOTES

Mrs. R. Wm. Pilling and son Doris of Calgary were Sunday visitors in Raymond with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Jones moved to Picture Butte Tuesday of this week and will live there during the factory campaign.

The first load of beets took in at the local factory this season was a truck load from a grower in Cardale.

Mrs. John Ross, John Nelson, Wilford Shields and Earl Nelson of the Warner district were Raymond visitors Tuesday afternoon.

If you haven't a perfect mouse trap, just sound a call for members of a new organization and at least the American world will beat a path to your door.

535 grain cars, containing nearly 800,000 bushels were loaded last Friday on the Lethbridge division of the C.P.R. This was the largest single day's loadings on record. We should say it ought to be.

A couple of sign painters were in Raymond the first of the week and painted several new signs and repainted a number of old ones that had faded some.

Stretching the series to the full five games, Picture Butte won the Senior Baseball championship of Alberta Monday night at Adams Park, Lethbridge, when they defeated the Galt Miners 6-2. In the five game series the Butte won each of the opening games of double headers and lost the last one. The same order followed Monday afternoon when they won the deciding game.

Russell Keurl of Cardston was a Raymond visitor on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. Lish of the Fairbanks Morse Co. was at the Sugar Factory on Wednesday installing the new beet scales there.

Mr. Cunliffe of the Mexico Brick Co. of Missouri was a Raymond visitor on Monday having business at the Sugar Factory.

The Picture Butte Sugar Factory started slicing beets Thursday morning, several of the local officials going over there for the start of operations.

A. E. Caloon was in Lethbridge Monday evening to witness the baseball game between Picture Butte and Lethbridge. If there's one thing "Ab" likes more than one ball game it's two.

Raymond Coffee Shop is now located in its enlarged quarters and with the installation of new booths, and the re-arrangement of counter, show cases, etc., is inviting and up-to-the-minute in layout and service.

Plains Petroleum well No. 4 in the Taber crude oil field struck pay formation when the bit hit the Chancey sands as the well was being deepened for their tests. Oil was obtained at 3,200 foot level.

Monday set a new record for grain marketing on the Lethbridge sub-division of the C.P.R. when 1,177,000 bushels of wheat and 8,000 bushels of other grains were poured into elevators on the sub-division by Southern Alberta farmers. This shows the way in which mechanized farming speeds things up in the grain business.

RAYMOND A.A.A. TO MEET SUNDAY

The Annual meeting of the Raymond Athletic Association will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon in the Town Hall. The Annual reports will be presented and the executive for the coming year will be elected.

Officers tell us that because of the busy season it is impossible to hold the meeting in the evening, and because of the necessity of staging a drive for funds for the winter's work it is quite essential that a new executive be chosen at once. All interested are asked to be at the Town Hall at the date and time above.

NEWS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Harding Brewerton are on a motor trip to Utah at the present time.

A. E. Hunnisset of the Toronto Type Foundry, Winnipeg, was a caller at the office of the Recorder on Thursday this week.

Ray Stoddard of Cardston visited in Raymond for a few minutes on Thursday en route to Picture Butte where he went to work in the Sugar Factory at midnight Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Card left this week for Provo, Utah, taking Miss Alice with them, where she will attend the B.Y.U. for the coming winter.

New signs were painted this week on the new hotel, the Sugar Bowl and the Vanity Beauty Shoppe. Fremont's Jewelry also had a big sign painted on the south wall of their store.

Premier Hadzan of Czechoslovakia and his Cabinet resigned Thursday, and it was expected the General Jan Syrovky, would be chosen to head the new Government.

A shower is being held tonight, Friday, at the Jos. Thompson residence, for Miss Clara Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook, who was married in Lethbridge last Sunday. Congratulations to the happy young couple.

A shower was held for Miss Mildred Galbraith at the L. D. King home last week when a great many friends of Miss Mildred gathered to offer their congratulations and enjoy a social evening. A program was followed by the unwrapping of the gifts and finished with refreshments.

A very enjoyable welcome home party was held at the Opera House Saturday night last in honor of Elder Lyddell Roberts, who has just returned from a three year sojourn in the Tongan Islands in the South Pacific. S. J. Card, Ward Chairman of the Missionary Committee had charge of the program, which was followed by dancing, which was enjoyed by the large crowd present.

For the second time in ten days Premier Chamberlain of England was in conference with Chancellor Hitler of Germany over the European crisis. It was stated that Premier Chamberlain would ask German troops to demobilize at once amongst other requests. News casts Thursday night stated that Herr Hitler had demanded the ceding of Sudeten territory to Germany at once otherwise troops may be given the order to march across the border.

The Rotary meeting on Monday was addressed by Major H. Singer, Lethbridge, who gave a very comprehensive talk on the "European Situation" and gave his listeners many interesting sidelights on events of past years leading up to the present situation.

The speaker certainly had a good knowledge of European geography and seemed to be entirely at home with the boundaries of the smaller kingdoms of Europe as well as with the larger ones. His talk was greatly enjoyed by everyone present, the only regret was that the time was so short.

The usual fine dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid, and President Lee announced that District Governor Percy E. Reed of Regina would visit the local Club on Wednesday, October 5.

LIBRARY FLASHES

The most asked for book during the past week was "So Big" by Edna Ferber. This book is on the reading list of the school & the local library is fortunate in having two copies of it.

At the present time the children are doing more reading than the adults and Eleanor Porter's books are their favorites.

Leading articles the past week were:

"What if you don't Marry Young" in the October Number of Good Housekeeping.

"Socialism in New Zealand" in the current Canadian Forum.

"Funeral Services of J. Golden Kimball" in the Desert News of September 17th.

This week we say "Thank You" to the Department of Lands and Mines for a copy of "The Report of the International Boundary Commission" on the Re-establishment of the Boundary between United States and Canada from the Gulf of Georgia to the north-western point of the Lake of the Woods.

New Books Per Tiny Tots

"Dance Trot and Her Cat" by Blackie, also the "Magie Duck" and "Uncle Jumbo" by the same author.

JUNIOR BOOKS

"Big Budget for Boys" by Blackie.

ADULT BOOKS

"Ralph Connor's Life Story."

"The Rosary" by Barkley.

RALPH CONNOR'S GREATEST BOOK TO BE PUBLISHED IN SERIAL FORM

It is seldom that so great a book as Ralph Connor's "Postscript to Adventure" is made available to readers in serial form immediately following its publication. The fact, therefore that the Family Herald and Weekly Star has secured exclusive publishing rights for this book is indeed interesting news.

"Postscript to Adventure" as many admirers of the late Ralph Connor (Rev. C. W. Gordon) well known, is the last book he wrote, having been completed just before he died. It is an amazing tale built around his lifetime of rich experiences, from his boyhood days in Glen Garry County, Ontario, to his breath-taking adventures during the World War. Critics have called it his most exciting book—as thrilling as "The Sky Pilot."

The Family Herald and Weekly Star is to be congratulated on its foresight in purchasing the rights for "Postscript to Adventure", thus making it possible for over a million readers to enjoy this great book inexpensively in serial form. Installments start in the Family Herald this month.

YOU OWE IT TO THEM

The harvest is on. Much wheat has already been marketed and much more will be marketed within the next two weeks. A flow of money, the like of which has not been witnessed in our district for some years past will be turned loose.

We are making an appeal to citizens of the Town and district to spend their money with the business firms of Raymond who by all rights have first claim on the wealth of the district. We owe it to them to trade at home.

There is not a mail order firm in the Dominion that will pay a dollar of taxes into Raymond to help operate our schools, and the stores from nearby cities are in the same category. We shop with them, they enjoy it and so do we, but they take our dollars to pay the taxes of their city, and our merchants are robbed of that business and the problem of keeping their store open becomes correspondingly harder. With a school problem, and a school population such as we have in Raymond, this matter should be considered.

Then too, here is a point we should not overlook. A town is judged largely by its business establishments. Every questionaire received in Raymond will want to know the number and kind of stores, banks, garages, machine shops, etc., etc., and every time we spend our dollars at home we are assisting in making room for more successful business. Whether we like it or not, we help to make or break the town and every business house in it when we take our money away from home.

And too, don't forget the many favors the home town merchant extends to local people in the matter of credit. Not for long, and not in large amounts possibly. But there are not very many families but at times during the year need a little "tick" to get by on for a few days or a couple of weeks until something can be marketed and turned into cash. We never write the mail order house and ask for time on a grocery order or a bit of meat, and we don't ask the city store keeper to carry us for a few days. We always go to the home town merchant for this courtesy, and many of us thank him by getting mad when he tries to collect and telling him to go to blazes for any more business. A fine Christian spirit.

Think these things over folks when the spending bug bites you. Because of volume and purchasing power the city store may shade the price a bit on some things, but very little if any on standard lines. Let us remember that we have schools to keep going, services in the Town to maintain and improve, streets to surface and many other things in the offing. Every dollar spent in Raymond eventually will assist in these things. Our business establishments are what make a better and busier town. We are going to spend, let's spend at home with our own local merchants and business people. We owe it to them to do this.

TRIVIAL INCIDENT

Like many another aphorism, the one which says it's news when a man bites a dog has been proved false in actual practice. A Parisian boulevardier, thrown by a dog's onslaught to the pavement of the most famous of boulevards, the Avenue des Champs-Elysees, retaliated by digging his teeth into the canine's neck, to the great discomfort of the animal which howled in pain and beat a hasty retreat. The story did not make the front page, but a faithful reader seeking diligently, may come across it on an inside page in early editions.

Real news is that which affects us all directly, the weather, taxes, war and the threat of war, crime, outstanding service to mankind, misconduct of public servants, human aberrations, government, life and death. These are concerns vital to all mankind. They are news. Practically every item of interest comes under one or another of these designations. The story of a man who bites a dog belongs under the heading "trivia" and the man himself may be just another case for the psychopathic ward, to which the boulevardier in the preceding paragraph was relegated by the Paris judge.

A dictator need not be a great man. All he needs is about 80,000,000 people who say "Yes, sir."

Strange world! A man who steals a purse is a thief; a man who steals ideas is just a shrewd competitor.

Our Edmonton Letter

Edmonton, Sept. 20.—Another test of the extent of the Social Credit party's collapse in Alberta has been forced upon the Aberhart government by the death of Charles C. Ross, independent Social Credit member of the legislature for Athabasca and former minister of lands and mines.

Mr. Ross, long known as one of the foremost mining engineers in the Dominion, never was a politician. His name was not mentioned during the Social Credit campaign in 1935, but when the Aberhart forces were successful, the new Premier asked Mr. Ross to take over the portfolio of lands and mines, on the understanding that he need not dabble in politics against his wishes but would administer the department from a strictly business and technical standpoint. In order to provide him with a seat in the house, the successful candidate in Athabasca resigned and Mr. Ross was declared elected there by acclamation in a bye-election, the same day as Premier Aberhart was given the seat in Okotoks-High River by the same method.

After 15 months in the Cabinet, Mr. Ross resigned. It was at the time when Hon. Lucien Maynard was being given his portfolio, and it became known later that Mr. Ross had declared he could not remain in a government which accepted Mr. Maynard as a minister. The conversation in the cabinet chamber on one occasion when the issue was being argued—in Maynard's absence—has yet to be disclosed publicly.

Shortly after the resignation of Mr. Ross from the Cabinet came that of Provincial Treasurer Charles Cockroft. The Social Credit insurgency broke out a few weeks later but they took no active part in it, but they subsequently refused to sign the "pledge of unity" and were read out of the Social Credit caucus. They continued to sit on the government side of the house, but consistently voted and spoke according to their own opinions. Both men offered to resign their seats and Social Credit popularity to a test. After Premier Aberhart had reportedly publicly questioned Mr. Cockroft's right to the confidence of his constituents, the former treasurer moved in the legislature that the Recall act be amended so that a member could be unseated if 10 per cent of his constituents signed a petition against him instead of two-thirds per cent, required by the act as it stood then. Far from accepting the challenge, the government replied by repealing the act altogether. Premier Aberhart was about to be unseated under its terms by his Okotoks-High River constituents.

As the other receiver of an acclamation in a bye-election, Mr. Ross got a very different reception from his Athabasca riding. He went up there and interviewed the Social Credit constituency executive last year and told them that inasmuch as he had been given the seat as a Cabinet Minister and had since resigned from the Cabinet, he felt he should resign his seat. He said, further, that he was an outcast in the party in Edmonton and so feared that he could do the constituency no good.

The executive in Athabasca asked him not to resign, but to continue for a time at least.

Again last spring he repeated the offer to resign his seat; he told the members of the executive that he felt that he not only could do his constituents no good in Edmonton but that he was actually doing them harm, because anything he asked from the government on their behalf was sure to be refused. The Athabasca representatives reportedly replied that such a thing did not matter as the present government was of no use anyway.

About seven weeks ago, Mr. Ross went to Athabasca again. In his pocket he carried a resignation form. He consulted with the members of the executive of the Social Credit constituency organization once more, and it was claimed later that every man except one had gone on record asking Mr. Ross not to resign. The one exception, it was stated, was C. H. Tade, the man who was elected to the seat in 1935 and who, upon resigning in favor of Mr. Ross at Premier Aberhart's request soon after the election, became head of the Social Credit League in the province. He lost that position a few months ago.

The sudden death of Mr. Ross last week while visiting in Vancouver now forces a bye-election in Athabasca after all. It is known that the government has been hoping for the past year that no such bye-election would be necessary, but now it is being rumored that the vote will be called in November. Mr. Tade is expected to be the Social Credit candidate, and may be opposed by a "Unity" candidate alone. The opposition side of the house has won all four of the provincial bye-elections which have been held since the landslide of the Social Credit party in 1935.

Other chief developments of last week were two letters sent out by the Aberhart government. One was addressed to the Federal government, and complained because a copy or two of the "Case for Alberta," this provincial government's idea of a brief on Dominion-Provincial relations and a lot of other things beside, had evidently been given to one or more members of the Rowell commission by the Dominion government, which had been subjected to an avalanche of 25 copies from Edmonton. Premier Aberhart's complaint did not say so, but it was suggested that there were fears in Alberta that Major C. H. Douglas, the discreetly-distant master-mind might be gruff with Mr. Aberhart and the rest of them if he ever discovered that a member of the Rowell commission had been allowed a peak at the treasure-house of wisdom, after Major Douglas had warned his Alberta disciples to present no brief to any commission not appointed by the same Alberta government.

Mr. Aberhart's other letter was addressed to the Premiers of the other eight provinces, and urged that an inter-provincial conference be held, "without the intervention of the central government," to decide just what ought to be done about Canada. It was not clear just what led the Alberta Premier to suppose that other provincial governments might be willing, under any circumstances, to follow the type of leadership and degree of administrative ability being demonstrated within this province. Similar overtures which he made last spring to other provinces were rewarded only by a chilly silence. His lateness of provinces to seek national unity—but demands that the one unifying government that the Dominion has must be barred from such a conference.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION AT LETHBRIDGE

WEEKLY LETTER

THE BIG BLACK FALLOW

Who is afraid of the Big Black Fallow? You are, we are, and the neighbour on the other side of the fence is scared almost to death. Everyone has been afraid of big blocks of black fallow for many years and have been trying to eliminate them but in last year's drought areas, where there was little or no crop or weed growth, there was no chance to leave a trash cover on this year's fallow. This has resulted in black fallows without trash cover protection and where strip farming is not practiced the fields are large.

So the Big Black Fallow is back again and everyone is afraid. Afraid that if this fall, this winter or next spring are drifting seasons these fields will arise and become Big Black Blizzards; sweeping across the country; leaving destruction in their wake. There is little wonder that the Big Black Fallow causes fear. It is the real "Big Bad Wolf" of the Prairie.

Having the Big Black Fallow it would be a fine thing to own a fairy wand that could be waved over the fallow and change it into a field of nice narrow strips. Too bad the days of fairies are over, but perhaps they are not. There is actually a wand that will strip these big fields easily and effectively. In everyday talk it is called a lister.

To convert a big block of fallow into a stripped field with a lister merely requires listing strips through the field at any desired interval. It would seem advisable to have the strips of listing not over ten rods apart on fields that have no trash cover protection. Five rods would be safer on light soil or in fields that have started to blow.

The listed strips need not be very wide where drifting has not started. Experience has shown that a rod or two of listing is decidedly beneficial. Last spring many fields where big blocks were drifting were stabilized by members of the Station staff, engaged in P.F.R.A. activities and by farmers, by means of strip listing. The results are so positive and listing is so easily done that there is little need of leaving big blocks of fallow unprotected.

Very few farmers have listers but lister shovels for duck-at small costs. They may be foot cultivator can be secured borrowed from the Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge or through the local Agricultural Improvement Association. A few large listers are also available for use where severe drifting has commenced and cultivator listing would not be sufficient.

If there seemed to be no danger of drifting in the spring the listed strips could be levelled by cultivating parallel to the furrows with a duckfoot and the entire field seeded in a block. Where spring protection was needed the listing could be left until the grain was up high enough on the unlisted strips to furnish protection. The listed strips could then be cultivated and seeded.

The lister is indeed the wand that can change this Bad Wolf, the Big Black Fallow, to the much safer striped field. It would seem but common sense to accept its help.

TOURIST DOLLARS
SPELL PROSPERITY

Tourist dollars are the healthiest spent in any country declared D. L. Dolan, of Ottawa director of the Canadian travel bureau, when addressing a recent travel bureau, when addressing a recent meeting of directors of the Alberta Motor Association.

Mr. Dolan visited the province while in the course of a west ern tour for the purpose of contacting members of motor clubs touring organizations and representatives of provincial governments.

Emphasizing the importance of the tourist traffic Mr. Dolan said that tourist dollars are spent for the employment of services in the country and the purchase of goods. Whether the resident was a bootblack or a farmer, he benefitted from the tourist trade.

Just as soon as the tourist crossed the border into Canada he became a member of the consuming population and a non-resident taxpayer, said the tourist chief.

Mr. Dolan stressed the need of well-constructed, dustless highways, if the tourist trade was going to expand in this country. He thought that those responsible for road building in the west were doing a good job with the available funds.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS

The reason it pays to buy from a store or other firm which advertises is so obvious that mere statement of it must of necessity sound repetitious.

When a mercantile or professional establishment pays out money week after week to broadcast its message to the world through the columns of a newspaper, it is investing in good will as well as inviting customers to come and get it.

When an advertiser invests some of his money in good will, he makes certain that he gets his money's worth by striving to the utmost to give his customers more than they expect in savings, service and satisfaction.

If you ever come out at the short end of an unsatisfactory deal—and who hasn't—it's almost a sure bet you were doing business with a non-advertiser. The class of businessmen who are intent solely upon a quick profit never invest an advertising dollar in good will. That method of building business is too slow for them. In time, however, they may discover that the route they selected is the hardest one.

When you buy from the firms whose advertisements appear in this edition of the Recorder, you are assured of the most for your money in value and quality.

This has been connoted "a buyer's year" and it certainly is—for the wise shopper who buys from establishments that demonstrate their confidence in the value of good will by advertising their wares and their services.

SCIENCE STUMBLES

Science has run up another blind alley at the poultry department of Cornell University.

Jugglers of genes at that seat of learning have succeeded in breeding a type of chicken with out feathers. But, having bred them, it was discovered that the cost of heating henhouses to prevent nudity from running into pneumonia far exceeded the cost of removing the pinfeathers from normal fowl.

It is all very baffling, and reminds one that we have bred a race of women who, inured to semi-nudity in most circumstances, nevertheless want fur coats for winter.

The path of human progress is inadequately marked with detour signs.

NEW SIGNS FOR ALBERTA ROADS

Numerous new signs are to be erected on Alberta main highways and on intersecting secondary highways, according to a recent announcement by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

Need of adequate sign-posts on the highways was taken up with the minister by the Alberta Motor Association.

Intention of the department is to proceed immediately with locations selected by officials of the erecting of signs at various the motor association who have most desirable spots.

With the surfacing of highways being advanced by the department as speedily as possible, it is believed that the volume increase. In view of this heavier of motor traffic is bound to increase, it is felt that the province should have its sign-post system fully up to requirements.

One suggestion received by the minister is that a yellow centre line should be run along the main highways, as this would be seen more easily at night.

Another suggestion is that illuminated signs should be placed at curves. These suggestions, it is understood, are being considered by the department.

Compared, however, with the modern tower of publicity, the Tower of Babel would be only a tower of silence.

Indications are that European frontiers will soon begin to disappear like neighborhood fences on Halloween night.

The trailer cannot pretend to be a modern domicile until its in a position to advertise a sport room in the cellar.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Anderson were guests of honor at a lovely party held on Monday evening last at the John Ross home west of Warner. Elder Anderson has been in charge of the Tyrell's Lake branch for several years and moved to Raymond recently. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were the recipients of a beautifully upholstered chair as a token of remembrance from their many friends in the Tyrell's Lake district. Over forty were present at the party.

With an estimated ten million men under arms in Europe, it seems just a little ironical to be praying for peace. The situation between Germany and Czechoslovakia over the week-end remained very tense, and the tension increased after France and Britain had recommended ceding the Sudeten German area of Czechoslovakia to Germany. The Czechs remained firm in their announcement that they would fight to maintain present boundaries of their republic.

Young Bride (timidly): "That baby tonic you advertise, does it really make babies bigger and stronger?"

Drug Store Clerk: "We sell lots of it, and we've never had a complaint."

Y. B.: "Well I'll take a bottle." Completing the purchase and leaving the store, the bride returned in about ten minutes and cornered the clerk again.

Y. B.: (whispering): "I forgot to ask. Who takes it—me or my husband?"

Monday, October 10th has been declared as Thanksgiving Day in Canada and as is usual will be observed as a Holiday.

Magistrate Jensen of Cardston and Constable Ellis of Magrath were here Tuesday afternoon when the Magistrate listened to two or three cases, some of them decidedly lengthy.

Grant Holt opened his new butcher shop to the public on Monday morning. He is in the old stand his father operated for many years and because of his long association in the merchandising business of Raymond needs no introduction.

A wedding of interest to a number of Raymond people was solemnized in Cardston last week when Verl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Johansen, Cardston, was married to Theron M. Lambert of Provo, Utah. The young couple will make their home in Provo.

Speakers in the Second Ward Sacrament service Sunday evening last were Elder J. LeRoy Anderson, supervisor of the Aaronic Priesthood work in the ward, Miss Mildred Galbraith, and Elder Anderson of Provo, Utah, future husband of Miss Mildred Galbraith. We understand that this young couple will be married soon in the Cardston Temple and will make their future home in Provo.
